Why We're Drinking It

$240 elsewhere. $99 today. Truly astounding! Only a handful to sell, however...if you love classically-styled Napa Cabernet, you'll be thrilled to have a few of these bad boys in your cellar!

In the late 1990s, Paul Maroon (1947-2019) began the journey to fulfill his life-long dream to create his own boutique small production winery in Napa Valley. Maroon's winemaking dream began with the purchase of 300 acres on the backside of Howell Mountain in Pope Valley, which he later sold. Around the same time, he also acquired the 37 acres that would become Maroon's permanent home, in what is now part of the prestigious "Coombsville Appellation". Today, 17 acres of this land is planted with Cabernet Sauvignon, which produce Maroon's Estate wines.

This 2014 Reserve Cabernet sings with dark plummy fruit, jammy red preserves, clove, baking spice and a rich, yet balanced texture. Definitely drinkable now or hold it a few more years with ease. Once again, INCREDIBLY priced! Don't miss!
